PRAY FOR OUR MILITARY

The men and women that serve in the armed forces do so with a form of sacrificial love for our country and the world. Lifting them up in prayer to the Lord must be our humble, and yet great support for them.

Lord, may your love encircle our military as they work across the world to install justice and peace for all. And be their hope through the difficulties and stresses they face each day.

Mass intention is also a wonderful gift for any special occasion: birthday, anniversary, in thanksgiving for a prayer answered, etc.

Please call the parish office to schedule a Mass Intention.

SPIRITUAL LIFE

FROM THE DESK OF OUR ADMINISTRATOR

Fr. Emerson Rodriguez Delgado

Friends, let's dive into the mysterious and sacred journey of marriage - not just the fancy wedding day, but the real adventure that starts way long before the "I do's" and carries on far beyond. It's easy to look at marriage as the culmination of love - the end point of the path of falling in love. But the truth is, marriage is only the beginning. Love remains and deepens, but its form changes, renewing itself in a different, more profound way.

Remember Adam and Eve? God didn't just give Adam a buddy to hang out with. No, He created a deep, intimate soul-level connection between man and woman. This is the essence of marriage: a bond that transcends the physical and reaches into the very depths of the spiritual.

Now ponder your own relationships. Are they just surface-level, or do they touch your heart? Jesus challenged us to love our partners as complete equals. In a world where people often treat relationships like they're disposable coffee cups, how can we uphold this call of lasting commitment?

You see, marriage isn't a fairy tale ending. It's the start of an adventure with ups and downs, laughter and tears. It's about choosing to love your partner each and every day, even when it's tough.

The ancient readers of the creation Bible stories didn't take them literally. They saw them as profound metaphors for the journey we all must take toward wholeness and deep connection and lifelong commitment.

Think about those everyday moments with your spouse - making coffee together, saying goodbye in the morning. We often overlook these little things, but aren't they the bedrock foundation upon which an enduring relationship is built?

Remember when your partner simply listened after you had a bad day, without trying to fix everything? Or a moment when you messed up, but they forgave you without keeping score? That's the kind of love Jesus talked about - not just words, but tangible, life-giving actions.

Real marriage isn't about looking perfect on social media feeds that makes everyone green with envy. It's about loving your partner even when they annoy you - like leaving dirty dishes around or snoring loudly, even when they leave their socks on the floor or forget to put the toilet seat down. How often have you had to swallow your pride, bite your tongue, and choose love anyway? More than you can count, I bet.

So how can we infuse our daily lives with more of this sacrificial, Christ-like love? Perhaps it starts with being fully present when our loved ones are sharing their hearts, instead of absently nodding while our eyes are glued to our screens. Maybe it means finally releasing that grudge we've harbored for far too long and extending genuine forgiveness.

What one small act of love can you do today? How can you make your spouse or your child or your friend feel truly seen, heard, and valued? For when we live with love like this - in our homes, our neighborhoods, our church - we have the power to change the world around us. This is how we can truly live out our faith and our calling - by loving extravagantly, sacrificially, and unceasingly. Amen.
