FROM THE DESK OF OUR PASTORAL ADMINISTRATOR

Fr. Emerson Rodriguez Delgado

Wishy-Washy Faith or Unsettling Fire?

Is your faith a gentle whisper of comfort, or a blazing fire that refines and transforms? Too often, we think of faith as a safe harbor – a source of solace in life's storms. And yes, faith does comfort us when we feel lost or broken. Scripture reminds us that God is close to the brokenhearted (Ps 34:18), and His love sustains us in our weakness. But what happens when faith becomes more than a refuge? What if true faith is a fire –unrelenting, refining, and transformative? A force that not only comforts but compels to change?

This Sunday's Gospel from Luke shakes us out of any complacency we might have about our faith. Jesus says something startling: "I have come to bring fire on the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled!" He goes on to speak not of peace but of division. Wait—division? Isn't Jesus the Prince of Peace? How can peace and love—the cornerstones of His teaching—coexist with division and confrontation? Or perhaps the fire Jesus speaks of is a necessary catalyst for profound transformation?

Let's be honest, most of us avoid conflict. We crave peace and harmony. And We like our faith neat, comfortable, and easy to manage. But Jesus isn't interested in making us comfortable. He's interested in making us holy. The fire He brings forces us to confront the state of our hearts and make a choice. Faith doesn't grow in comfort zones. It thrives in the refining fire of discomfort, where we're compelled to wrestle with hard questions: Am I living for God's kingdom, or am I content with pursuing my own convenience? Do I follow Jesus wholeheartedly, or only when it feels safe and comfortable? Am I willing to let go of the things I hold onto so tightly—my pride, my fears, my plans, my attachments—and let God reshape my life?

Jesus warns us that his fire will divide, not because he seeks us tear us apart, but because truth, by its very nature, divides. Truth demands a response. It forces to take sides. When we encounter the real Jesus – the one who calls us to take up our cross and follow Him – we cannot stay the same. As St. Paul reminds us, we are not conformed to the patterns of this world; we are transformed by the renewing of our minds (Rom 12:2).

Earlier in Luke, John the Baptist proclaims that Jesus will baptize with the Holy Spirit and fire. But this fire is not one of destruction – it's one of refinement. Like gold in the furnace, It burns away our complacency, melts apathy, and consumes mediocrity, leaving only what truly matters. As the letter to the Hebrews reminds us, our God is a consuming fire. He burns away the dross to reveal the image of Christ within us (12:29). And Teilhard de Chardin so fittingly put it, "Someday, after mastering the winds, the waves, the tides, and gravity, we shall harness for God the energies of love, and then, for the second time in the history of the world, man will have discovered fire."

This fire of love is anything but passive. It consumes the distractions, excuses, and trivial pursuits, exposing the people we're called to become in Christ. But make no mistake: this refining fire is deeply unsettling. It demands radical commitment – a life fully surrendered to Jesus' mission. Faith isn't just about believing; it's about living. It's about stepping out of the boat, walking on water, and trusting Jesus with every step. It's about moving beyond comfort and declaring our allegiances boldly.

The imagery of fire and baptism reveals the heart of Jesus' mission. His baptism was an act of total dedication – a life poured out to bring God's kingdom to earth, even to the point of death on a cross. The fire He brings calls us into ultimate renewal and spreads the Good News of God's reign to every corner of the earth.

And what of the peace Jesus promises? His peace is not the absence of conflict or challenge. It's not the world's version of peace—temporary and shallow. It is the peace that surpasses all understanding. It is a peace forged in truth, love, surrender, and sacrifice. It's the peace that comes from living fully for God, even in the face of difficulty.

So, my friends, where do your allegiances lie? Are you ready to let the fire of faith consume the trivial distractions of life? Faith isn't meant to remain dormant. Salvation is free, but it's not cheap—it demands courage, love, and a heart willing to be refined.

This week, I leave you with this challenge: Will you embrace the unsettling and transformative fire of faith? Or will you settle for a wishy-washy faith that comforts but never transforms? The choice is yours. Step into the fire, church. Let the fire of His Spirit refine you, renew you, and send you out to proclaim His kingdom boldly. Amen.

The men and women who serve in the armed forces do so with a sacrificial love for our country and the world. Lifting them up in prayer to our Lord must be our humble, and yet great support for them.

Lord, may your love encircle our military as they work across the world to install justice and peace for all. And be their hope through the difficulties and stress they face each day.
