It is a wonderful Catholic tradition to request a Mass Intention for loved ones; living or deceased. In fact, asking for Mass intention for the deceased is not only Catholic tradition, it is biblical (2 Maccabees 12: 38-46).

Mass intention is also a wonderful gift for any special occasion: birthday, anniversary, in thanksgiving for a prayer answered, etc. Mass intention donations are $10 each. Please call the parish office to schedule a Mass Intention.

The Glorious Paradox: Embracing the Cross as the Ultimate Sign of Love, Redemption, and Life

This Sunday, as we celebrate the Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, we are invited to confront a profound mystery: How could a symbol of humiliation and death—the cross—become the ultimate declaration of life, love, and victory? It defies human logic yet resonates deeply with heart of our faith: a God who turns suffering into redemption, shame into glory, and death into eternal life. What does this transformation reveal about the God we worship and the life we are called to lead?

In the first century, the cross was a symbol of humiliation and torture, stripping its victims of dignity. To Jesus' contemporaries, honoring such a symbol would have been unthinkable—offensive even. Yet, as Christians, we exalt the cross. Why? Because it proclaims a truth that transforms everything: love has the final word.

In the Franciscan tradition, theologians like Duns Scotus remind us that the cross was not a 'plan B'—a desperate response to human sin. Instead, it was always part of God's eternal design to dwell with us in love. Even the very first letter of the Torah, 'Bet,' speaks of God's desire to build His dwelling, His kingdom, among us. The cross, then, is not a mere transaction to pay for sin but a revelation of God's boundless, self-giving love. On the cross, this love is poured out in a way that calls us back into relationship with God. True love doesn't send an invoice; it extends an open invitation.

The exaltation of the Holy Cross is not just a commemoration—it is an invitation to see ourselves and our lives through the lens of God's transforming love. Have you ever felt unworthy, broken, or burdened by wounds no one else can see? The cross reminds us that no pain is too deep, no heart too broken, for God's love to heal and transform. It calls us to bring our brokenness to God, trusting that He can make all things new.

The story of the cross is not an isolated event in Salvation history. It echoes the account of Moses lifting the bronze serpent in the wilderness (Num 21), a foreshadowing of Christ's own sacrifice. Just as the serpent brought healing to the Israelites, rebellious and grumbling against God, so too Jesus, lifted upon the cross, brings salvation to all of humanity. But this salvation is not abstract or distant—it is deeply personal and transformative, reaching into the depths of our brokenness. The cross becomes the bridge drawing us into God's embrace.

On the cross, Jesus didn't just see humanity's pain—He entered it. He felt the sting of rejection, the weight of shame, and the agony of separation. And through it all, His love never wavered. In John 3:16, we hear the familiar words: "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son." Unlike the gods in the Roman world, often perceived as distant or indifferent, the God revealed in Jesus is revolutionary—loving even broken, rebellious humanity. This love is glorified on the cross, not through power or dominance but through self-giving.

St. Paul, writing to the Philippians, uses the Greek term kenosis—"self-emptying"—to describe that Jesus did not cling to power or privilege but instead humbled Himself, becoming a servant and willingly accepting death—even death on a cross. He allowed Himself to be nailed to the wood, arms outstretched in an embrace that transcends time and space. In doing so, He revealed the futility of striving for worldly power and showed us that true strength lies in love, humility, and service. It's like the ultimate plot twist: the meek shall inherit the earth. Who could have imagined it?

What does it mean to live this truth daily? It looks like compassion over competition. Forgiveness over resentment. Humility over pride. It means sitting with someone in their pain, even when it's uncomfortable. The cross calls us to let love—not pride or fear—guide our actions.

As Christians, we are called to embody God's compassion in the world. This means entering into the messiness of life, sharing in the pain of others, and allowing our hearts to be transformed by love. Jesus didn't shy away from the wounds of the world; He entered fully into them, becoming the wound, the tears, and the cry. And in doing so, He transformed everything, drawing all creation back to God - "Until God is all in all" (1Cor 15:28). From the arms of the cross, Christ calls us into a love that reshapes how we live, love, and serve.

This Sunday, as we lift our eyes to the cross, let us heed its radical call: to let go of fear, pride, or resentment, and to choose love, humility, and service. Will we allow the cross to reshape our hearts and lead you into a life of renewal, hope, and courage?

PRAY FOR OUR MILITARY

The men and women who serve in the armed forces do so with a sacrificial love for our country and the world. Lifting them up in prayer to our Lord must be our humble, and yet great support for them.

Lord, may your love encircle our military as they work across the world to install justice and peace for all. And be their hope through the difficulties and stress they face each day.
