COMMUNICATIONS

BULLETIN CONTENT SUBMISSION

Anyone parish group/organization wishing to submit items for publishing in the weekly bulletin should send the content to Daffodil Behal at dbehal@charlestdiocese.org by end of day Tuesday for the coming weekend's bulletin. Submissions after the deadline will be included in the Sunday email.

FLOCKNOTES

We are currently in the process of arranging Flocknotes so that multiple people in each household can receive the Parish emails. This will allow us to not duplicate information on our Servant Hearts Flocknote group.

If you, or have someone in your household that currently does not receive the Parish emails (that are registered parishioners), and would like to subscribe, please email Daffodil Behal at: dbehal@charlestdiocese.org.

Provide the following information:

FROM THE DESK OF OUR PASTORAL ADMINISTRATOR

Fr. Emerson Rodriguez Delgado

What Awaits Us Beyond This Life?

"Where are we going?" Four words, yet they hold the weight of countless sleepless nights, existential crises, and even that heated road trip debates when someone forgot to check the GPS. Oops. But this question, beyond its casual usage, has haunted humanity since the first gazed at the stars and wondered, "Why are we here? What's the point of it all?" It lingers, unshaken, one of the deepest inquiries in philosophy.

In his Critique of Practical Reason, Kant asked, "What can we hope for?"—a question that touches the very core of humanity's quest for meaning and the ultimate destination of life. This longing echoes throughout history, surfacing in moments of awe, fear, and even denial. For some, it demands soul-searching reflection. For others, it's easier to avoid. What lies beyond death? Are we, as a culture, sidestepping the reality of mortality—distracting ourselves with fleeting pursuits while ignoring the inevitable?

Christianity offers a bold and transformative response: the resurrection of the body. But, this promise is often misunderstood, shaped more by Platonic ideas of disembodied souls floating off to heaven. The biblical vision, however, is far richer. It's not about escaping from the physical world but about its complete renewal – a new heaven and a new earth, where the physical and spiritual are united in perfect harmony (Rev 21). As St Paul proclaims, "If we have grown into union with him through a death like his, we shall also be united with him in the resurrection" (Rom 6:5). In other words, death doesn't get the last laugh. Life does.

Life is fragile, shadowed by the certainty of death. Each breath brings us closer to the grave—a reality that can feel overwhelming. Yet, for Christians, death is not the end. It's a doorway—to a life more abundant and eternal, where God's love triumphs over the grave. As the psalmist assures us: "Even though I walk through the dark valley, I fear no evil; for you are at my side, with your rod and your staff that give me courage" (Ps 23:4). In this promise, we find courage to face both life and death. The resurrection declares God's resounding "no" to death, transforming how we live, what we value, and where we place our hope. It calls us to affirm life, reject all that destroys it—violence, oppression, and injustice—and to honor the sanctity of every human being.

On All Souls' Day, we light candles for the faithful departed. Their flickering glow reminds us of the eternal light in Christ. As we remember their lives – their struggles, joys, and faith – we trust that they now rest in God's care. This day reassures us: love never forgets, and in Christ, we are never alone. It is a time to honor their memories and renew our trust in Christ's promise: "Everyone who believes in me will have eternal life" (Jn 6:40). Are we living in the light of eternity?

This day also calls us to reflect on the communion of saints—a bond unbroken by death. The Church Militant, Suffering, and Triumphant form a symphony of faith, their prayers blending across time and space in a harmony that reaches the heart of God. This communion urges us to think beyond ourselves. Salvation is not a solitary journey; it's a shared mission. Faith compels us to ask not just, "How can I save myself?" but also, "How can I help others find salvation?" By sharing the hope of eternal life, we fulfill our calling as followers of Christ.

So, where are we going? If we live as people of the resurrection, the answer becomes clear: toward a future where love conquers, life endures, and the grave holds no power. We are going home! This hope isn't just for eternity – it transforms us here and now. It calls us to embrace life, reject what destroys it, and share eternity's promise with a world longing for hope. Death, where is your sting? Not here. Not now. Not ever.

PRAY FOR OUR MILITARY

The men and women who serve in the armed forces do so with a sacrificial love for our country and the world. Lifting them up in prayer to our Lord must be our humble, and yet great support for them.

Lord, may your love encircle our military as they work across the world to install justice and peace for all. And be their hope through the difficulties and stress they face each day.

NEWS FROM OUR SCHOOL

Terrific Tuesday Highlights

Superhero Theme Day brought lots of smiles and excitement as our students showed off their heroic spirit — rain and cold couldn't stop the fun! Our Beta Club also spent time reading to our younger students, making it an extra special day filled with laughter, learning, and community.

St. Anthony of Padua Catholic School – First Quarter Awards

This past Thursday, our school community came together to celebrate our students' hard work and dedication during the First Quarter Awards Ceremony.

Students were recognized for earning A Honor Roll, A/B Honor Roll, Perfect Attendance, and Student of the Quarter honors. We are so proud of their achievements and the example they set through their commitment to learning and living out our school's values of faith, excellence, and service.
