It is a wonderful Catholic tradition to request a Mass Intention for loved ones; living or deceased. In fact, asking for Mass intention for the deceased is not only Catholic tradition, it is biblical (2 Maccabees 12: 38-46).

Mass intention is also a wonderful gift for any special occasion: birthday, anniversary, in thanksgiving for a prayer answered, etc. Mass intention donations are $10 each. Please call the parish office to schedule a Mass Intention.

COMMUNICATIONS

BULLETIN CONTENT SUBMISSION

Anyone parish group/organization wishing to submit items for publishing in the weekly bulletin should send the content to Daffodil Behal at dbehal@charlestdiocese.org by end of day Tuesday for the coming weekend's bulletin. Submissions after the deadline will be included in the Sunday email.

FLOCKNOTES

We are currently in the process of arranging Flocknotes so that multiple people in each household can receive the Parish emails. This will allow us to not duplicate information on our Servant Hearts Flocknote group.

If you, or have someone in your household that currently does not receive the Parish emails (that are registered parishioners), and would like to subscribe, please email Daffodil Behal at: dbehal@charlestdiocese.org.

Unseen or Wrestling: The Places Jesus Chooses

This Sunday's Gospel begins with a hard sentence: "When Jesus heard that John had been arrested..." Before a sermon, a jail cell. Before a miracle, a headline. Jesus steps into public life to the sound of a prison door.

Matthew is teaching us this: God's light does not wait for peace and quiet. It doesn't arrive after the trouble passes. It comes while the trouble is still here. Light meets us in the mess, not after we've cleaned it up.

Then Jesus goes to Capernaum, to the region of Zebulun and Naphtali. It sounds like a small detail, but it's a big announcement. Matthew is hearing Isaiah in the background: "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light." And Isaiah names that region on purpose. It was the borderland—the crossroads—often the first place to be hit when the powers of the world came marching through. The exposed places. The overlooked places. The places people judged as "too far," "too mixed," "too complicated." And Isaiah says: "That's where dawn breaks first." Not in the safest center. Not in the shiny places. On the edge.

So here's a question worth carrying this week: Where is the edge in your life right now? Where you feel stretched thin. Where you feel unseen. Where you're tired of holding everything together.

Because Zebulun and Naphtali were names before they were places—names born from a complicated family. Zebulun carries Leah's ache: Maybe now I'll be seen. Maybe now I'll matter. Naphtali carries Rachel's honesty: This has been a struggle. I've been wrestling. Those are still two common kinds of tiredness.

Some of us live in Zebulun—doing the right things, showing up, staying faithful—yet quietly asking: "Does anyone see me?" Some of us live in Naphtali—wrestling with anxiety, addiction, caregiving, money, health, relationships—so long that struggle starts to feel normal.

And here is the mercy of the Gospel: Jesus begins there. Not after everything is fixed. Not when fear is gone. Not when life finally becomes manageable. He makes the edge his starting point.

Then Jesus speaks his first public word: "Repent." That word can sound like a scolding, but here it's a doorway. Repent means turn. Reorient. Change direction. As if Jesus is saying: You don't have to arrange your whole life around the dark. You don't have to stay braced for the worst. You don't have to let your wound be your name. Turn—because light is here.

And notice what he does next: he calls ordinary people—fishermen with nets, bills, and sore backs. The light doesn't only shine; it gathers. It makes a people. It heals—and then it sends.

So the Gospel leaves us with one simple, searching question: If Christ begins on the edges, what edges do I avoid? Out there—in my community, my parish, my neighbors. And in here—in my own heart.

And perhaps the most personal question of all: Where have I lived in the dark so long that turning toward the light feels risky—even though it's the way home?

The good news is not that darkness isn't real. John is arrested. The world is tense. The powers are still the powers. The good news is this: The Light has come near. Near enough to tell the truth. Near enough to heal what's wounded. Near enough to lead us forward. May we have the grace not only to notice the light, but to turn toward it— and follow, one step at a time, into a new way of seeing, and a new way of living in Christ.

PRAY FOR OUR MILITARY

The men and women who serve in the armed forces do so with a sacrificial love for our country and the world. Lifting them up in prayer to our Lord must be our humble, and yet great support for them.

Lord, may your love encircle our military as they work across the world to install justice and peace for all. And be their hope through the difficulties and stress they face each day.

Welcome New Parishioners!

ST. ANTHONY OF PADUA CATHOLIC SCHOOL

Dear Parishioners of St. Anthony of Padua,

Over the Martin Luther King Jr. weekend, I joined a workshop and retreat sponsored by the Institute for Catholic Liberal Education. This was part of an 18-month national cohort of Catholic educators committed to renewing our schools. Despite my ongoing illness, the time was deeply renewing, reminding us that the Catholic educator participates in two key offices of the priest: to teach and to heal.

The Church has produced many strong documents on Catholic schools because education lies at the heart of her mission. Among my favorites are the Congregation for Catholic Education's The Catholic School (1977) and The Religious Dimension of Education in a Catholic School (1988). But the one that has most shaped my vocation is Pope Pius XI's Divini Illius Magistri (1929), which lays out Christian education's purpose with clarity and beauty:

"The proper and immediate end of Christian education is to cooperate with divine grace in forming the true and perfect Christian, that is, to form Christ Himself in those regenerated by Baptism, according to the emphatic expression of the Apostle: "My little children, of whom I am in labor again, until Christ be formed in you" (Gal. iv 19). For the true Christian must live a supernatural life in Christ: "Christ who is your life" (Col. iii 4), and display it in all his actions: "That the life also of Jesus may be made manifest in our mortal flesh" (II Cor. iv 11)."

This vision guides our renewal efforts at St. Anthony of Padua Catholic School. I recommend two talks that make school renewal practical and inspiring:

"Treasures Old: Wisdom and Inspiration from the History of Catholic Education" by Dr. Andrew Seeley. He traces the rich history of Catholic education, showing how the Church's tradition of learning remains a vital heritage today.

"Rejoicing in the Truth: A Portrait of Renewal at Our Lady of Lourdes" by Rosemary Vander Weele, president of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic School in Denver, CO. In 2011, enrollment had fallen below 100 students. By 2018, it grew to 231 across two campuses. Her story highlights what matters most: placing Christ at the center of formation.

I encourage you to listen and reflect—they offer real insights for our parish school.

Thank you for your prayers and support as we build a school where Christ is formed in every student.

In Christ the Beloved,

Brian Long
Principal
St. Anthony of Padua Catholic School
